

Ramandeep Kaur etc. Vs Balwant Singh

Present: Sh. B.S. Sandhu Adv., for applicant/plaintiff.

Statement of the applicant recorded. As the applicant/plaintiff has filed the suit and has claimed the relief that the defendant being her husband is going to sell the suit property i.e. ancestral property of the defendant specifically when the defendant is also deserted the plaintiff and his children from her matrimonial house and non maintaining the plaintiff, so in the interest of justice and prima facie case, maintenance is the first charge. So, under these circumstances, at this stage and in the interest of justice, I found it fit that ex-parte interim relief may be granted to the plaintiffs. Defendant is ordered to be summoned for 22.02.2018 in the meantime, the defendant is restrained not to sell the property till the next date of hearing. The compliance under Order 39 Rule 3 CPC be made within two working days, failing which the ex-parte ad-interim order shall stand vacated automatically.
